HOSTILE ARMIES BATTLE ON LEILEHUA PLAINS INVADING REDS WIN TOP OF HILL BLUES BREAK CAMP FOR FIGHT

Clash Of Arms On Reservation Itself

BY LAURENCE REDINGTON

to Star-Bulletin]

CENTRAL STATION, Castner, Oct. 22.—The battle of Leilehua Plains was fought today, fought over the brown plains almost within shadow of the hills behind Schofield and largely within sight of the road that runs from Honolulu to Waiwae.

For more than two hours the battle raged hot and heavy and when at 11:30 o'clock in the morning two bombs sounded the order to "cease firing," the victory was in doubt. The umpires and commanding officers of both forces gathered to study out the problem and compare notes on the varied tide of conflict during the day, until they have finished none will know whether the eagle of victory is perching this afternoon on the banner of the defending Blues or the standard of the invading Reds.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the decision had not yet been reached. The Red leaders, however, feel that they have won the fight because they succeeded in getting their forces across Kaula gulch unopposed, and up to the high ground at Schofield in shape to give the best battle that was in them.

Practically all of the fighting occurred around the central station at Castner, where the new buildings are going up and in the midst of proaic building material of all kinds. But the battle was spectacular, picturesque and engrossing.

The Blues broke their camp early today and marched in from near Pearl City and the Reds from their landing at Waiwae scaled the hills and crossed the gulches until they got upon the plains of Leilehua. Then came the clash.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock when the opposing armies came together and they fought until half an hour before noon.

The Blue cavalry, which was sent out to the Boys' Industrial School, is still to be heard from. The Reds got across Kaula gulch without trouble, although they had expected that the bridges would be cut down and they would have to go by trails. The first artillery firing began at 9:10 o'clock with one battery of the Blues well screened behind a knoll to the north of the main road using direct fire over the knoll, and the officers getting the range from a tall water tower.

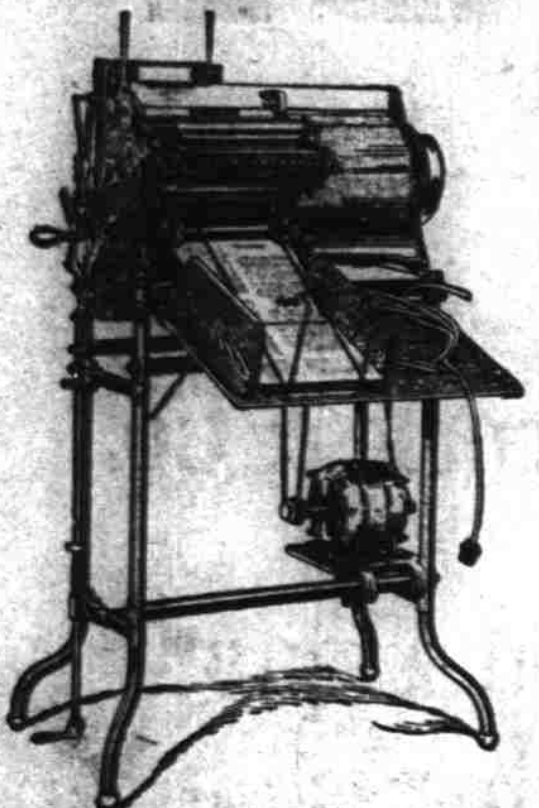

The Reds' artillery also had a well-screened position which allowed their guns to play upon the massed Blue cavalry to the left of the Blue line. There was an exciting engagement between mounted cavalry and infantry in front of the new infantry post.

This afternoon it was officially announced that a battalion of the Blues' Second Infantry had captured two bridges at Waiwae, and also given out officially that the marines were successful in driving back the squadron of Blue cavalry which had been sent to harass the Reds' advance.

prise of the maneuvers has been the participation of the marines who arrived at Haleiwa from Camp Verry by the tug Navajo last evening about 5:30 o'clock. The ordering of the marines into action brings an entirely new factor into the "war" and one that has to a considerable degree upset calculations based on the estimate of forces.

The Red commander was the only person in the Red army who knew that his troops were to be reinforced by the marines.

The mysterious squadron of cavalry that left Schofield on a secret mission turns out to be Blue cavalry, sent to the vicinity of the Boys' Industrial school at Waiwae with the intention, evidently, of making a flank attack on the main Red army as it moved to meet the Blues, presumably around Schofield Barracks.

The object of landing the marines apparently was to delay the cavalry of the Blues so that the mounted men could not attack the Red column.

Meanwhile the Blues were active, as the Red forces have learned. Col. Wilder began by throwing a signal line clear across the island. This was ascertained when a signal station

THEORETICALLY DEAD.

HALEIWA HOTEL, Oct. 22.—The most heart-rending decision that Capt. Walter H. Johnson, umpire, has had to make yet was this morning when a Red orderly galloped across the bridge near the hotel, the bridge having previously been theoretically destroyed. Therefore, theoretically the orderly fell in to the river and both he and his horse were declared duly drowned. He was a surprised orderly to learn of his untimely demise.

The Republican leaders have arranged meetings for this evening, one at the corner of Punchbowl and Luzon streets, Fourth district, and the other at Ewa and Waipahu, Fifth District. The candidate will assemble in the headquarters at about 6:45 o'clock this evening, before proceeding to Waipahu, thence to Ewa.

The party leaders and candidates are determined to make a strong campaign from now on until the election day.

Prince Kuhio, Republican candidate for delegate to Congress, is confined to his bed at the home of Rev. Stephen L. Desha in Hilo, quite ill with dengue fever, according to news received here today.

He was taken down at Kipahulu, Maui, and was hardly able to board the Claudine for Hilo, where he arrived Monday afternoon. The Prince would have returned by the Mauna Kea this morning but was too ill to leave his bed. Wirelesses received at Republican headquarters from Hilo this morning from County Chairman Carlsmith, Dr. Huddy and Mr. Desha state that the Prince must abandon his tour of Hawaii. Princess Kaiulani leaves in the Mauna Kea tomorrow to accompany the Prince to Honolulu.

According to wireless messages received here the American tanker Lansing sailed from Kahului for Port San Luis on Sunday. The vessel was discharged of a cargo of fuel oil.

According to a cable received here the British steamship Hornet sailing from Honolulu on Oct. 11th arrived at Eureka yesterday. This vessel is understood will take on lumber destined for Australia.

Becker Not Put On Stand

[Associated Press Cable]

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The defense rested today in the Lieutenant Becker case, without Becker testifying. Policeman Faye and a well-known gang member, Charles Reich, testified that they heard "Bald Jack" Rose and "Bridle" Webber, two underworld characters, declare that they hated Rosenthal and planned to murder him and accuse Becker of the crime. Both have confessed, but say Becker planned the crime.

LINER MANCHURIA BRINGS STORY OF FIRE AND DEATH

Fire and death visited the Pacific out the evening previous with two Mail Liner Manchuria during the stay of the big trans-Pacific steamer at Far Eastern ports.

Ninety-fathom Daniel Friele, veteran master of the vessel and commodore captain of the Pacific Mail fleet, however declares that he had nothing to fear of a hoodoo that is alleged to have pursued the Manchuria across the thousands of miles of watery waste since his departure from San Francisco some months ago.

The Manchuria with the commodore flag of the general skipper gaily flying from the masthead, came along side Alakes wharf before nine o'clock this morning. The big liner met with a succession of head winds almost immediately after leaving Yokohama, this brand of weather continuing until the liner came within sight of the Hawaiian Islands.

It was at Manila that Edward G. Morse, fourth officer in the vessel met his tragic death. To all accounts Morse was drowned. It is the general opinion that Morse tripped over a rope and fell overboard striking the water in such a way as to render him unconscious. The Manchuria had been working her forward hatches and the railing was down between No. 2 and 5 hatches and it is supposed that he fell overboard there for when his body finally floated it came up right opposite No. 3 hatch.

When the body was discovered just as it rose to the surface, it was badly swollen from being in the water so long. There was a blue spot on the side of the head which has not been accounted for as there were no cascades alongside that he could have struck in falling. It is claimed that Morse had been out the evening previous with two fellow officers in an automobile. They visited several popular places about Manila after which the deceased is said to have returned to his ship along about twelve o'clock at night, according to statements from the watchman. An inspection of his cabin at the time of the tragedy revealed his clothes neatly folded in his locker.

The deceased officer was given a fitting burial at Manila the funeral services being largely attended, and the remains interred at Del Norte, the most beautiful cemetery in the city of Manila.

The Manchuria had proceeded from Manila to Hongkong when on the night of September 27th, an alarm of fire spread about the huge ship. An investigation developed a fire of no mean proportion in the Number 3 hold, where a quantity of gunnies had been placed for shipment to Hawaii.

All officers as well as members of the crew were called to the fire stations at the midnight hour. Efforts made to extinguish the fire failed as far as the use of streams of water was concerned.

A hasty consultation among the officers resulted in the order being issued that the sea cocks be opened, and the hold flooded.

It is said that about one hundred and thirty bales of gunnies many destined for Honolulu were either destroyed or badly damaged. According to estimates made on board the vessel it is believed that the loss will amount to about $9000.

The claim was made this morning that the experience with the fire resulted in no damage being done to the vessel.

EARLY DECISION ON NOMINEES OF MAUI

The Republican nominees for the Legislature from Maui probably will learn at a very early date whether their names are to be enrolled on the ballots at the coming election. It is understood the arguments on the agreed statement of facts, presented to the supreme court by the counsel for the Democratic territorial central committee and Attorney General Lindsay, will be argued before the higher tribunal this afternoon.

If this is done, the supreme court's decision, determining the validity of the Maui candidates' nomination papers as filed with the Territorial Secretary, may be expected within a few days.

Secretary Mott-Smith has not begun the investigation of the nomination papers filed by the legislative candidates from the fourth and fifth districts, on this island, because the county clerk's register of qualified voters is not in form yet. Since the public airing of the legal conditions that has followed the troubles of the Maui nominees little difficulty is anticipated in reviewing the signatures on the recent documents filed, and it is thought all the nominees from this island have taken care to file their nominations in strict accordance with the statute.

To prepare a mass of figures showing values and expenses of neighboring and adjacent property which is to be presented to the federal jury sitting in the third Mahuka site case, counsel for both sides agreed to an adjournment of court at 11 o'clock this morning until 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The figures were deduced in the course of the second Mahuka site hearing and are a matter of record. By introducing them in documentary form several days of testimony by property owners will be eliminated from the present suit and the case greatly simplified.

TK's morning's session of the court was occupied largely with the submission of written evidence, taken in the former case, and by the evidence of Sam Walker, the only witness called, concerning the receipts and disbursements on the McIntyre building for a period covering the last four or five years.
